CROWDS CHEER HIM.

The Famous Transvaal Raider,

Dr. Jameson, Cheered to the Echo in London Today.

AT LAST HE IS IN COURT.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM GREETED

HIM AND HIS ENTRANCE

TO LONDON LIKE THAT

OF SOME HERO.

(Special Dispatch to the Transcript.)

LONDON, Feb. 25.—It was expected that the famous Dr. Jameson of Transvaal raid fare would be arraigned at the Bow Street Police court this morning. But he was not there to the disappointment of great crowds which thronged the streets near the court.

It was said here today that Jameson had succeeded in eluding newspaper reporters and had been in the city on parole at one of the leading hotels since Sunday.

It was expected that the Duke of Abercomby, chairman of the British South Africa company, would be present when the court opened.

Friends are ready to offer unlimited bail for Jameson, and many noted men are expected at the court scene this morning.

The crowds gathered about the Bow street court were Jameson sympathizers.

They remained waiting for the famous raider's appearance cheering his name to the echo. Hour after hour they waited.

Every kind of rumor was afloat as to where Jameson could be. The troop ship Victoria must be nearing her dock in London, and if Jameson had been landed at Gravesend or Flibury he would have been in London long before noon. At 2 o'clock he had not come, but the crowd was waiting, cheering and hurrahing for Jameson. If the enthusiasm for Jameson is any sign the English people idolize their land robbers.

[LATER.]

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Jameson was landed at Thames this afternoon by a tug sent to the troopship Victoria. He took a train for London at once with a number of his friends and arrived at the Bow street police station at 3.15 o'clock.

The officer in charge of Jameson had to traverse a circuitous route to avoid the crowds which lined the streets where it was supposed Jameson would pass.

It was 6.25 o'clock this afternoon (London time), when Jameson arrived at Bow street. Then there was a scene of wild commotion. As the great raider entered the court room the crowds outside cheered and cheered again. Inside the whole audience rose to its feet at Jameson's entrance and uncovered as a mark of favor and respect.

The enthusiasm for Jameson has been overwhelming today and his entrance to London has been like that of a conqueror rather than that of a criminal.

Jameson was arraigned in the court with fourteen followers and was charged with warring against a friendly state. This will be the indictment to which he must answer.

WELCOME IN CHICAGO.

The Salvation Army There Will Welcome and Accept the New Officers.

About the New Commander.

(Special Dispatch to the Transcript.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 25.—Chicago Salvation army people are pleased with the appointment of Booth Tucker to succeed Ballington Booth as commander of the Salvation army of the United States.

Captain Brown of the Chicago army said last night: Commissioner Booth Tucker is one great in our work. His career possesses a high degree of romantic interest. He was a judge on the queen's bench in India and possessed of great wealth, when through the work of the army he became converted and decided to make his work his own.

"His first act was to retire from his high position and next to give his fortune to the army, and then assuming the garb of an East Indian of the lowest caste he begged daily food from door to door. Going to London he offered his services to General Booth, asking only to be retained in India, whose necessities he knew so well. In six months he was taken through a course of instruction in the great London training school for the army, and was then sent as a commissioner to India, accompanied by fifty officers.

"He organized the work thoroughly there and established it as only one of his fine executive powers might do. While

HISTORIC MANSION BURNED.

(Special Dispatch to the Transcript.)

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—The historic Deacon mansion at Roxbury was gutted by fire this morning, the work undoubtedly of incendiaries, for the mansion has been closed since the Deacon family went abroad a few years ago. The former owner was Edward Parker Deacon the Boston banker who figured in a Paris tragedy wherein he shot the alleged lover of his wife at whose apartments he found him at an unreasonable hour. The mansion was recently sold to A. D. Puffer of Boston. The loss is estimated at $200,000. Partially insured.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

Happenings of Interest in Our Neighbor Towns.

AT ADAMS TODAY.

The St. Patrick's Night Concert.

Miss Julie Allen of the New York Conservatory of Music has been in town since Saturday night arranging for the concert to be given under her direction for the benefit of St. Charles church on St. Patrick's night, March 17. The concert will comprise solos by Miss Allen, assisted by St. Charles choir, Professor Miesko of North Adams, accompanist, and J. A. Taggart violinist. Miss Allen returned to New York today and will come here again about ten days before the entertainment. Besides the musical part, she has a class of six young women who will take part in a series of living studies.

The Cheshire Liquor Cases.
This morning the cases against Mrs. Kate Nagle and Daniel Morey of Cheshire for selling liquor illicitly came up before Judge Bixby and Mrs. Nagle's case was continued three months pending sentence with the understanding that she will go out of the business meantime. Morey was fined $100, which he paid.

Charles McDonald was in court also on a charge of drunkenness and was let off on probation.

The Shaw Medal.

A week from Friday will occur the high school prize speaking contest for the term and instead of one medal, there will be two, as the new one presented by F. R. Shaw will be awarded to one of the boys. The new medal is being finished by F. W. Roberts from a disc of gold somewhat larger than a 55 gold piece. It will have a pin on the back and will bear an appropriate inscription.

The United Workmen's concert and social at Odd Fellows' hall this evening will be a pleasant affair and it is probable that all who have received invitations will attend. Palmer's orchestra will provide music for the dance which will follow.

Mrs. A. B. Penniman who was recently taken to a New York hospital to be operated upon is improving rapidly and it will be about two months before the operation is performed.

The foreign mission department of the Baptist Women's union is in session this afternoon. Today ended twenty-five years of the department's existence and the topic of the meeting is "Twenty-five years."

Supper will be served at St. Mark's parish house at 6 o'clock this evening; at Trinity Methodist church and the Congregational house Wednesday evening. The regular monthly meeting of the Grand Army's associate members will be held at Grand Army hall this evening. There will be a special Epworth league meeting at Trinity M. E. church this evening.

There will be a regular old country sugar-eating festival at the Baptist chapel this evening and everybody who attends is bound to have a good time. The affair is for the benefit of the Sunday school. Ice cream will be served.

Monday, the forty odd pairs of clubs ordered through F. W. Roberts by the high school pupils who are to take lessons in physical culture of Principal Hall, arrived and after Monday evening's session of school the young men and women exercised for an hour or more in the old gymnasium. Another meeting will be held Thursday.

Miss Alice Donovan visited friends in Pittsfield Monday.

Miss Bid Murphy went to Springfield Monday, to visit her sister.

Patrick Dowd assumed today his duties as local agent for the Prudential Life Insurance company of New York.

Officer Hiser went to Concord this morning with William Hanley, who was sentenced to confinement in the state reformatory Monday for burglary.

Harry Brown, who appealed his case Monday morning after being fined $25 for assault on Frederick Wagner, was held in $500 to appear before the grand jury, reconsidered his determination after spending three or four hours in the lockup. He was unable to procure the bonds and thought it would be much better to pay the $25 than go to Pittsfield to await the July sitting of the grand jury and then be tried again.

The late Mark Bard's funeral occurred from his late home at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. H. B. Foskett officiating.

Alexander Horton, machinist at the Berkshire Cotton company's mills, crushed the end of his right ring finger this morning while at his work. Dr. A. K. Booni was called and found it necessary to amputate the injured finger.

Rev. W. H. Adrian of Great Barrington will preach at the Lenten service in St. Charles church Friday evening.

Dr. W. G. O'Malley opened his office in Jones' block Monday and although all his furniture has not yet arrived his parlor is very nicely furnished. Dr. O'Malley is a graduate dentist and a nephew of Dr. McLaughlin of North Adams. He has many friends here and being very highly recommended by them is sure to receive his fair share of patronage.

Alexander Jones' lecture at Herman hall this evening on "The Growth and Advancement of the Turn Verein Society Throughout the country," will be largely attended.

Two new milliners are to have one side of J. C. Field's shoe store to open a millinery department Friday with her parents.

There was an animated discussion after the reading of Dr. H. B. Holmes' paper on "The Physiological Division of Labor," at the Fortnightly club at St. Mark's parish house Tuesday evening. In the course of the paper there were given some of the theories of evolution, etc., to which some of the members took exception.

Under the new regime governing the street railway conductors, they are instructed to permit police officers in uniform and firemen going to and from a fire to ride free. Police officers have heretofore had passes but now none are required except when they are on duty.

CHESHIRE.

Ward Cretbro is laid up with a cut foot. He carefully handled an axe one day last week.

Perry Pettit has moved to Lanesboro.

Frank Barker has moved from the Bon-not place to Chesterfield.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lamb last Sunday.

The schools will close for the teachers' meeting at Pittsfield Friday.

Station Agent Stillman returned from a week's visit in New York state Monday.

W. R. Brown will occupy the homestead he built several years ago. He will not return to Tacoma, where he has lived several years past.

The funeral of Mrs. Brown was largely attended. There were people present from Pownal, Vt., Adams and other adjoining towns.

Charles Jenks of Shelburne Falls was at J. G. Northup's Sunday.

WILLIAMSTOWN.

A Pleasant Leap-Year Ball.

Friday night some of our prominent citizens went to Ashfield. They called there to honor Samuel T. Mather and M.
F. Quinn of that place by their presence at a leap-year dance. It is certain that all had an unusually good time, for the persons named below are capable of enjoying themselves and certainly when Mr. Mather and Mr. Quinn were hosts. B. J.
Sherman, W. B. Clark and wife, B. J.
Kellogg and wife and F. Mather and wife composed the party.

New Telephone Line.

There are three men boarding at hotel Williams, representing the American Telephone company. They will be here for a short time surveying and measuring for the new telephone line, which will be put in from Boston to Chicago. There will be eight new wires.

H. A. Strong is away from town for a few days.

Joseph Quinn, Patrick Kreffe and Frank Pratt were appointed delegates by the high school and went to Adams Monday in that capacity to meet the high school and Drury academy delegates, to form the baseball league for the coming season.

William Madden is quite ill at his house on East Main street.

Two carpenters left the new Episcopal church Monday. They were called to New Haven, Conn., by Mr. Burritt to work on the new normal school in that city. The church will be finished by Easter Sunday when it will be dedicated.

G. G. McKinley, a student, has consented to lead the singing in the Congregational Sunday school in place of G. S.
Atherdian, who did not accept the position.

A sleigh was upset at the watering trough opposite W. L. Crozier's market Sunday afternoon. The horse turned about several times and finally ran toward North Adams, and was found at Joseph Pattison's wayside this side of the brick works. The occupants were not injured.

A son of Mr. Davidson, living upon J. B.
Gale's farm, tipped over a sleigh at the same place a short time afterward. This spot seems to be ill fated as several accidents have occurred there.

Augustus Ruethe is quite ill. He called Dr. Hull Monday. His injured finger is very painful.

BLACKINTON.

Miss Jennie Eadie returned to Northampton Monday after spending Sunday in town with her parents.

Mrs. William N. Gove is under the care of Dr. Galvin, suffering from a severe attack of pleurisy.

Leander Strall, who has been employed by the Fomeroy company of Pittsfield, has taken a position in the mill here.

The regular Tuesday evening prayer meeting will be held this evening with Miss Jennie Blackinton as leader. Subject, "Faith, and what it does for us."

Rev. Dr. Brown of North Adams will deliver the fourth lecture of the people's course in school hall Wednesday evening.
Subject, "Boys." In addition to the lecture will be singing by the O. A. O. Glee club.

A valuable horse, one of a team belonging to Mrs. Owens, and driven by Alexander Thibadeau was badly injured Monday while at work on the mountain drawing wood. While coming down a steep hill the horse fell and badly strained himself. Dr. McDowell was called and thinks the horse may be saved.

The many friends of Milton H. Potter are sorry to hear that he has been ordered to Colorado in hopes that he may regain his health. Mr. Potter was for many years a popular clerk in the store of E. W.
Blackinton, but lately started in business for himself in North Adams. Many in this village hope his recovery may be speedy and permanent.

Daniel Eadie and family have been treated of late to a great many social surprises, but the greatest and most pleasant surprise of the season occurred Saturday evening when in answer to the bell Mr.
Eadie found standing at the door with his violin tucked under his arm, "Signor" Philander Howland. The signor soon found shelter in the hospitable domicile of Mr. Eadie and as the fiddle had been protected from the cold with a heavy woolen shawl it was soon in working order. A few young folks who were enjoying themselves in the parlor made a rush for the kitchen. Tables and chairs were soon made to disappear and the light fantastic was tripped off by the young people can do it. The signor treated the party to a character song with violin accompaniment.
Mr. Howland has lately been absent from town and many are now beginning to believe that instead of Pennsylvania, it must have been a visit to Genoa or some other musical center in Europe. Mrs. Blackinton has heard of his ability and it is hoped he can be secured to officiate at one of the people's course of lectures.

BRATTONVILLE.

While a commercial traveler for a Troy firm was driving a fine pair of spirited horses through here yesterday the sleigh was overturned at the railroad crossing.
He succeeded in stopping the horses before they had gone far and no damage was done.

The concert which was to have been given in the chapel Friday evening of this week by Mrs. David Meiklejohn has been postponed until some evening next week.
Stone is being drawn for the foundation of the new store to be built by D. J. Brown on his lot at the junction of the old and new roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Weldon of Williamstown spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Danforth.

Benjamin Carter, who has been suffering from a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism for the past few weeks, has again resumed work.

ULYSSES STRINGING THE BOW.

[A suggestion for statutory.] Since he hath kissed the soil and drunk the song

Of his native land, his heart, his years Are lighter in the house which love endears.
His quivereth bow and his arrow is bent, His falcon eye unblinded pursues along The fabled bow of Ulysses, and through his ears

A chime of summer that his spirit hears Is echoed in the twitter of the throng.
Altho' a little sing, honey, I tell thee, The fabled bow of Ulysses, and through his
ears

His soul, he feels amid the silence wait, With strains of other harvest and a fruit Of holi's victorious revelry. Awaunt!
Fortnight as very late his hand will shoot.
—George C. W. Ward in Academy.

LEO'S MANNER OF SPEECH.

He is Deliberate, but Unhesitating, and His Voice Has Great Carrying Power.

The stiff mannerism of the patriarchal system, which survived until recently from early Roman times, gave him that somewhat formal tone and authoritative manner which are so characteristic of his conversation in private. His deliberate but unhesitating speech makes one think of Goethe's "without haste, without rest." Yet his formality is not of the slow and obscure sort. On the contrary, it is eagerly precise, and helps rather than hinders the clearness of his ideas. The formality of strong people belongs to them naturally, and is the expression of a certain unchanging persistence; that of the weak is mostly assumed for the sake of magnifying the little strength they have.

The pope's voice is as distinctly individual as his manner of speaking. It is not deep nor very full, but considering his great age it is wonderfully clear and ringing, and it has a certain liveliness of sound which gives it great carrying power.
Plus IX had as beautiful a voice, both in compass and in richness of quality, as any baritone singer in the Sistine choir. No one who ever heard him intone the "Te Deum" in St. Peter's in the old days can forget the grand tones. His voice was in many ways—with great physical beauty, with a rare charm of manner, and with a most witty humor, and in character he was one of the most kind hearted and gentle men of his day, as he was also one of the best initiators so to say, with a gentle with the high moral courage of boundless patience and political humility.

Leo XIII. need speak but half a dozen words, with all glances of his flashing eyes and one gesture of his noticeably long arm and he instantly made his mind and the moral discipline between his predecessor and himself is at once apparent. There is strength still in every movement, there is deliberate decision in every tone, there is lofty independence in every look. Behind these there may be kindness, charity, and all the other gifts of virtue, but what is apparent is a sort of energetic, manly tranquency which forces admiration rather than awakens sympathy. —Marion Crawford in Century.

Cheaper to Move Him Than to Bury Him.

Soldiers are never wanted by hotel proprietors. Each one costs a hotel a considerable amount of money, and for months the room in which it occurred is shunned.
At one of the leading hotels of this city lately a guest acted strangely, and the proprietor made up his mind that the man was going to do something desperate. So one night he went to the guest's room.
There was no answer to his knocks, and the door was locked. A look over the transom showed the guest writing a letter, a pistol at one side and a bottle of poison at the other.

"Let me in or I'll break open the door," called the landlord.

The door was opened after a little hurried word disposing of the things on the table.

"I don't want any suiciding here," said the landlord, entering. "What's the matter with you anyway?"

"Out of money, out of work and can't get out of town," suddenly said the guest.

"Well, then, if you can't get out of town and agree to get out of town?" asked the hotel man.

"I could get home for $20," was the reply.

"Here's the money. Now pack your gear and take the first train."

The man went. It was a good business transaction for the landlord. —Washington

Modern Vandalism in Rome.

Does any one remember Mme. Rachel, who used to enliven unsatisfactory complexions "for one occasion" or "for life"?
There was much talk of her in her day.
Those whom she enlivened dared not fail, for the competition would have cracked, but at a distance and by candle light the effect was really extraordinary.
Rome has been enlivened, and the enlivening is cracking unexpectedly soon. Rome is restoring to Caesar the things that are Caesar's. They are much bigger and more things than the symmetrical, anteed cubes which have lately been piled up everywhere in heaven offending masses, and one is glad to come back to them after the nightmare that has lasted 30 years. One is surprised to find the competition would have cracked, but at a distance and by candle light the effect was really extraordinary.
